

KHS Drama Department Has Successful Two-Night Run

'Taming the Wild, Wild West In a Dress'

The Knightstown High School fall play, "Taming the Wild, Wild West In a Dress," opened Friday in the KHS auditorium. Dakota James and Jake Cullison (right) act out a scene. Cullison (right, below) exclaims. Briana Hoon (right, bottom) relaxes back stage prior to the production's 7 p.m. start. Brittney Schmidt (bottom, center) portrays "Heide Gray" to Liz Selvidge's (left) "Nell Clipper" and Kylie Doubman's (right) "Roberta Pinz." Play director and KHS English teacher Lisa Teuschler (below) welcomes a crowd of over 200 spectators, many of whom returned for the Saturday night performance. In the two small, center photos, Briana Hoon gets a reaction out of Karsyn Mohler (left) and Jacob Lindsey. Cameron Mohler (center, below, at left) shares a laugh with Sarah Lindsey and Lacey Johnson. The play was written by Billy St. John. The cast and crew included 34 students. Crew managers were Samantha Leece and Hannah Hite.

Photos by Eric Cox